

Senior Deanna Fulwider of Anamosa reflects on her busy and rewarding summer as a worker for SCOPE.

Sports Area To Be Built

Plans for the new athletic and intramural sports area were put into action this week, according to Walter Fredrick, Jr., college business manager.

Building committee for the new area met with landscape architects from Harrison-Rippel, Inc., of Nevada on Tuesday, and signed a contract for the construction at that time.

The new area will be located near the northwest corner of the campus on 26 acres of land purchased from Bartels Home a year ago. The area will be developed into football, soccer, hockey and golf facilities.

Harrison and Rippel will begin two-month construction plans for the area on or before Oct. 1, according to Fredrick. During that time they will meet with members of the building committee and Physical Education Department.

After grading specifications are given next spring, bids will be let to grading contractors. Grading should be finished by the end of next summer, with the field ready for use the spring of 1968.

Symphony Starts Membership Drive Talent Show Set Tonight

Students seem unaware of the opportunities available through membership in the Wartburg Community Symphony Association, according to Franklin E. Williams, orchestra conductor.

Tickets Are $1.50

A full season of five concerts, two of which will feature a 100-voice Oratorio Chorus, may be attended for as little as $1.50. A Fall Pops Concert ticket is $3--twice as much--and admits the student to but one concert.

While appealing to the frugal student, Association membership also offers the opportunity to aid needy young musicians, as all contributions will eventually be invested in a scholarship program, according to Williams.

Recently established is a String Scholarship Fund, which grants $150 each year to qualified string players at Wartburg.

Pops Concert Oct. 23

Association membership is also a cultural opportunity, beginning on Oct. 23 with a Pops Concert, ranging from Tschai-kowsky's "Andante Cantabile" to Loewe's "Camelot" to "Ebb Tide" by Maxwell.

Artist Series Tickets Available Next Week

Tickets for the Oct. 16 Artist Series, featuring Victor Borge, may be picked up in the foyer of Neumann Auditorium from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. this coming Thursday and Friday.

An additional charge of $1 for students and $2 for faculty members will be charged because of the extra expense of the program.

Activity tickets must be shown. Ticket sales are restricted to activity card holders. Additional tickets will be sold on the following Monday in the Neumann Auditorium.

This concert will also include works by Lecuona, Stainer, Saint-Saens, Auric and Offenbach and is scheduled for Knights Gymnasium at 7:30 p.m.

The orchestra is composed of area residents and Wartburg students. Included are doctors, businessmen and a rancher, who plays violin.

Students may purchase membership in the Symphony Association from the following board members at Wartburg College; Miss Erna Moehl of the English Department, Williams, Harold Motter or Dr. Edwin Liemohn, all of the Music Department.

Tickets are sold at the door for each concert as well. Admission for adults is $1.25 and 50 cents for students.

No Convo Tues.; Panel On Thurs.

No convocation is scheduled for this Tuesday. The film formerly scheduled, "A Time for Burning," will be broadcast on nationwide educational television, so the contract here was cancelled.

Produced by the Lutheran Film Association, which produced "Martin Luther" and "Question 7," the film is rebooked here for Thursday, Dec. 1. A documentary, it shows the live development of racial tensions in Omaha, Neb.

Thursday's convocation will be presented by the student government. Pastor Ewald Bash, Minneapolis, Minn., will be in charge.

John Ylvisaker, a folk singer from Minneapolis, Minn., as well as several Wartburg students, will present an open forum panel discussion. Wartburg students participating are Jim Lubben, Lu Ahrens, Glen Oshiro, Sandra Moeller and Paul Nelson.

Racial Tensions Heated, Senior Tells Experiences

By DEAN KRUCKEBERG

Cold, vicious racial hate is foreign to the environments of most Wartburg students. Few here have experienced the violent racial tensions that are so prevalent in the deep South.

Integration problems, freedom marches, civil rights protests, Martin Luther King, Jr., and Grenada, Miss., are familiar to the average Wartburg student only through the news media of radio, television and the newspapers.

Dee Fulwider, a senior from Anamosa, has spent the past summer in the deep South, gaining first-hand insight and knowledge about this disturbing problem.

Throughout these past summer months she has participated in a civil rights march, has aided in Negro voting registration and has suffered such hardships as sleeping on the ground under the shelter of a canvas tent, enduring the burning sun on a march which took place in over 100 degree F. weather and being shot at with tear gas.

Delegate For SCOPE

Dee was the Wartburg College delegate for the SCOPE summer program. SCOPE, which stands for "Summer Community Organization and Political Education," is primarily interested in having legally granted civil rights laws enforced for all citizens of this country. Dee participated in the program this summer from June 14 until Aug. 29.

After a short orientation under the direction of Hosea Williams, noted aide of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., she spent the rest of the summer working directly with local Negro leaders in their battle for the enforcement of the civil rights laws.

"The biggest highlight of the summer's work was the march I participated in from Memphis, Tenn., to Jackson, Miss.," Dee commented. "This was the march which James Meredith started. It was aptly called 'The March Against Fear.'"

Negroes Are Scared

"The Negro in Mississippi is scared, very scared," she added. "The march showed them that Negroes and whites from other areas would help them in their fight for civil rights."

"The purpose of a march is not to cause unnecessary trouble in otherwise peaceful towns," Dee explained. "A march is the last resort Negro leaders use when white leaders refuse to negotiate. It always has a definite purpose."

"Usually, while a march is in progress, Negro and white leaders are in conference. The march has proved to be very successful in bringing white leaders to the conference table."

Injustice Concealed

A good example of the attempt of white leaders to conceal the injustice done to Negroes took place in Grenada, Miss., a town which has been in the news recently because of its racial unrest. The local white leaders in that small, Southern town refused to negotiate with the Negroes, who had declared that their civil rights were being abused.

Organized marches brought nationwide attention to the injustices done to the Negro populace in Grenada. As a result, federal marshals were brought in to insure that law and order were enforced, and federal registrars were present to aid in the voter registration procedure.

People all over the nation began to ask themselves and their government officials what was happening down there. The local and federal government, under the scrutinizing eyes of millions of Americans, took action.

Source Of Unrest

The town of Grenada, Miss., still is a major source of racial unrest and political turbulence, but the problems of that small community are now out in the open. No longer will they be hidden from concerned citizens throughout the country.

"Several people have asked me why the Negro in the deep South has such a difficult time registering to vote when they have the legal right to do so," Dee said.

"One of the major reasons that Negroes hesitate to register to vote is because they must do so at the county courthouse. The county courthouse represents the evil of the white man. It is there where the jail, the sheriff's office and the white man's government is established."

Negroes Threatened

"Many Negroes are threatened with the loss of their jobs once they have registered. Often the hours that the registrar's office is open is inconvenient for the Negro, although every convenience possible is given to the white voter."

"SCOPE has proved to be an exciting and rewarding experience for me," Dee exclaimed. "I only hope that the students at Wartburg College will take an interest in the program again this year so that we may participate in this worthwhile program again in 1967."

Open Forum Set Thursday

College policies will be discussed during an Open Forum Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. in Neumann Auditorium.

Faculty, administration and student panels will discuss how policies are made and how they can be changed.

The event is sponsored by the Student Services Commission, headed by sophomore Terry Sexton. Sophomores Lois Kuhl and Betty Radig are co-chairmen of the forum.

Members of the administration panel are Pres. John W. Bachman; Earnest Oppermann, dean of students; Miss Barbara Belk, dean of women; Dr. Mahlon H. Hellerich, dean of faculty; and Dr. David Olson, Physical Education Department.

Student government panel members are Jim Lubben, student body president; Gary Tillers, student body vice president; and senators Sandra Moeller and Paul Nelson. Senator Rich Bringewatt will serve as moderator.

CYR Confab Here Today

Iowa College Young Republicans will hold its "College Campaign Conference '66" at Wartburg College here Saturday.

About forty club chairmen and officers are expected to attend seminars on publicity, finances and programming. Other general plans will also be ironed out in anticipation of active participation in this fall's campaign.

Conference speakers include Robert Tyson, executive secretary of the state Republican Central Committee; Mike Fleming of Sibley, program chairman of the YR Central Committee; Leroy

Corey of Cedar Falls, press relations chairman of the YR Central Committee; and Bruce Bradley, organization director of the state GOP Central Committee.

All sessions will be held in the Student Memorial Union, beginning with the first general seminar at 10:30 a.m.

Lyle Krewson, law student at the University of Iowa, is chairman of the College Young Republican organization. Jean Biere of Wartburg, a senior from Anamosa, is the group's executive secretary and has been spearheading plans for the Saturday confab.

So What Else Is New?

Why do we come to Wartburg? It certainly isn't one of the Big Ten Schools, and anyone who has ever mentioned the name in any other area of the United States besides the Midwest discovers immediately that the school is a virtual unknown.

Our football team has a tendency now and then to lose, and the players have enough injuries to make quite a difference in the win-loss columns. We haven't won a championship in some time, so we don't really distinguish ourselves in that respect, either.

The campus is very collegiate looking and Luther Hall is ivy-covered; but then, so are a lot of others. We have no buildings designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, but none of them is actually displeasing to the eye.

Silence Remains

So what've we got? We have a rather good faculty who on the whole are dedicated to teaching us to learn and a group of students who aren't always willing to learn. Maybe there are a few classes where the teacher asks a "think" question, and his only answer is a huge and empty silence; but, then, that happens in a lot of other schools.

Maybe there is student apathy and very few participate in the Open Forum discussions because, well, it is hard to stand up and give your opinion, to risk being criticized and finding yourself in an embarrassing situation. After all, it is easier to let someone else do the talking.

Letters To The Editor

Changes Wanted In Den

Dear Editor,

To all returning upperclassmen much has changed on the Wartburg College campus. The biggest change is the Den. (Or should we call it the "Room Absent of Light"?)

Soon the college will have to hire ushers with little flashlights to take you to your seats, so that you will not stumble over chairs, tables or fellow Knights. Now don't misunderstand me, I like a moody atmosphere, but at 9 a.m.?

Likes To Sleep

This touches on another controversial subject. Last year the Den opened around 7:30 a.m.; now it's 9 a.m. Like many students, my first class isn't until 9 a.m. I like my sleep and usually arise around 8:10 a.m.

By this time the cafeteria is closed. Guess what? So is the Den! I suffer now until my first break, which is dinner. (How about you?)

Muff's Column Gains Critic

Dear Editor,

"Muff returns."

Halleluiah, Brethren! The gadfly of this courteous Christian community is once again in circulation. And what might the dire results of this catastrophic event be?

The "Iron fist" will (for the first time) question the "God is Love" theory.

All loyal Iowans shall again be shamed into burying their heads (ostrich style) in what I believe has recently been referred to as the campus soil bank.

Insurance rates will rise sharply; and Master Muff will be obliged to avoid dark streets, dead ends, "plrahna" infested fish ponds, housemothers, deans of all breeds and educated social-work majors.

Although his popularity is limited in some circles, many of the members of this high-minded, gracious and noble burg, known universally as Institution X and more locally as Grubtraw U., welcome the return of the mildly malicious "Muff" McCabe.

May Almighty Odin guide him safely through the corn-infested corridors of his continued career in this community of God.

--Bonnie Seedorff

And maybe God is dead or maybe God is love or maybe God is the Good Shepherd, but I go to church every Sunday and pay all my dues. Why argue about it? The Ladies Aid will decide for us anyway.

"The Axe" will, of course, see to it that Oppie doesn't get away with anything Oppie shouldn't get away with and will continue to harp on the same subjects. It's just a funny paper anyway and doesn't constitute any concrete threat to our "happy and satisfactory" lives here on campus.

Talks Interesting, But

Dee Fulwider and the other Student Action workers spent several lively and fascinating weeks this past summer with people far removed from our normal middle-class society, and I'm sure it was all very interesting; but who wants to give up half an hour to go hear them talk about it? I mean, we all have studying to do, and their talks are always arranged at such unhandy times!

So why do we come to Wartburg? Because it's accredited and affiliated with the American Lutheran Church? Or because we want to take advantage of the freedom of expression we're allowed on campus? Or because it's trying to prepare us for the other world that exists outside these 50-odd acres?

Maybe Wartburg is a good place to be indifferent about. After all, we're the ones who make it what it is, aren't we.

Krinkle's Korner

Iowa Gets It Again

By DEAN KRUCKEBERG

Kruckeberg

A belated welcome to Wartburg College, which has the only campus in the United States where people think free love is parking without a meter, Nicotine is a town in southeast Iowa and 3.2 is the percentage of students who missed last Wednesday's chapel service. It is the only place for miles around where LSD is an abbreviation for "Let's Slow Down."

By now the frosh have discovered that the shortest distance from the library to the union is across the campus lawn and that the fastest way to the dean's office is also from the library to the union across the campus lawn.

They have learned not to lend money to pre-thes and that the social work majors have the sloppiest rooms. The fellows over in Clinton Hall have discovered that Mrs. Hutson won't allow them to hang up the fold-out of the Elk in the last issue of "Sports Afield" and that they can give Miss Belk high blood pressure by hanging a rope from South Clinton II to the Cloister below.

The men in Grossmann have discovered that they can receive a $15 fine for singing "I'm from Milwaukee" and that the windows in Old Main are just within slingshot range of Mom's office.

By this time the girls in Wartburg Hall have begun their eight-week basic training program in fundamental defense maneuvers and beginners' karate and have discovered that they have no one to fill the first four weight classes in intramural wrestling.

They have also been informed that they are the reason student health insurance will have to go up and also why Wartburg refuses to give good athletic scholarships.

All the frosh who came to college with the "mod" look will discover that Wartburg's "sod" look, bib overalls and hip boots, will be a lot more practical when the blizzards come and that a sweatshirt and jeans are much more comfortable for sleeping in convo.

There have been many definite improvements on campus this year. The bookstore is selling a new wonder drug called "Bertha Control Pills" which are designed to counteract the red, green and blue pills ailing students received at the nurse's office.

The newly decorated Den proudly presents its new drink, "The Grube Grenade," which is guaranteed to make you forget the troubles you had previously so that you might concentrate on the sick stomach you have at the moment.

This is Wartburg College. Just like athlete's foot, it kind of grows on you. Besides, what's a guy going to do when he's not 4-F?

Senate Reports

Student Union is at present without a television. Should the set, recently ejected for classroom purposes, be moved into the lounge, into the Den or back into the original viewing room?

This is only one of many actions discussed by student senators at Monday night's meeting.

The session was opened with two appointments. Sophomore Lu Ahrens was appointed parliamentarian, and senior Art Alt assumed the duties of social activities director.

Student Body President Jim Lubben proclaimed Sept. 20-21 "V-Week" in the hopes of improving school spirit in athletic contests which will end with victories for both Wartburg College cross country and football teams.

"Faces," a senate-sponsored picture directory of all Wartburg freshmen and transfer students, to be released soon.

Two resolutions were enacted: From now on, the student body corresponding secretary and senate recorder shall be appointed by the student body president with a majority approval of the Student Senate; and the duties of the Constitutions Commission will be assumed by the Elections Commission.

Cardinals Smash Knights In Record Grid Debacle

By ED ROACH

William Jewell gave the Wartburg Knights a rude reception to Liberty, Mo., as the Cardinals mounted a devastating offense which virtually obliterated the Knights 63-13.

Speed was the major factor in the contest. The Cardinals fielded a team which boasted no less than seven men capable of turning a playing field in 10.1 seconds. Tiny Spin-back Steve Lucas gave William Jewell the individual honors as his 9.7-second speed accounted for three touchdowns.

"We could have played them the next five weeks in a row and have been beaten just as bad," head coach Lee Bondhus lamented.

Non-Conference Play

Bondhus said that the non-conference play had aided the team by pointing out several mistakes. Although many of the errors which were committed in the Macalester game were corrected, the Cardinals pointed to new failings.

"Kick returns really killed us," Bondhus commented.

The home team was able to return nine Knight boots for a total 196 yards. This included a 55-yard punt return which resulted in a score. In the latter stages of the game Wartburg elected to try to pick up the necessary yardage rather than give the speedy William Jewell backs a chance for a return.

Signal Caller Good

Quarterback Paul Specht of Monticello won the title of number one signal caller in the game. He will be expected to start in today's contest against William Penn.

"Specht showed considerable improvement in the past week," Bondhus said.

Flanker Bob Larson of Austin, Minn., showed fine form as he gathered in five passes for 123 yards. In the first two games Larson has exceeded his receiving total for the entire season last year.

Karrow Plays Fine Game

"Bill Karrow played as fine a game as I've ever seen him play," Bondhus remarked.

In addition the Knights improved their pass protection considerably. This allowed the completion of a 44-yard scoring pass to Jim Barkema, freshman end of Jewell.

Defensively the Knights didn't have the necessary speed to cope with William Jewell. However, Bondhus mentioned pass coverage as an area in which his team needed work.

Today Wartburg faces William Penn in the conference opener for both schools. The Statesmen, who lost 26-0 against Missouri Valley, have been operating without the services of their head coach during practice. He was sidelined with a ruptured appendix.

Penn has shifted its offensive alignment from last year's wing-T to an I and slot formations. The Statesmen have bolstered their team with several junior college transfers. One freshman starts on offense, but eight appear on the starting defensive roster.

Penn Has Injuries

The most conspicuous absence from the William Penn slate is that of Chuck Henry, who was an impressive rusher. Jim Anderson, number one halfback, will also miss the game because of a torn shoulder.

Seven Thinclads Return

A veteran Wartburg College cross-country team opened its season against William Penn this morning at the Waverly Country Club in a three-mile meet.

Coach John Kurtt ran seven letter winners from last year's Iowa Conference runner-up, headed by junior Jon Thieman, third-place finisher in the IAC meet last year.

Other runners included sophomores Rod Holt and Steve Jaco; junior Mike Hughes; and seniors Gaylen Fick, Bruce Kettner and Roger Stufflebeam.

So I Said To Myself . . . Self

Reception Is Poor

By JOHN MOYERS

Moyers

From this corner it was a little sickening to watch a team arrive home after a long trip that was made a little longer by a one-sided loss to one of the nation's finer small college teams, and pull up to the gym with the reception committee consisting of two coaches' wives, four children, one athletic director, one assistant coach, one janitor and a small dog named Cocoa.

We're fortunate on this campus to have a fine group of young men who put out 100 per cent for their school on the football field. They deserve a little more support than seems to be given.

Winning teams are not made completely from the 35 men who play on the field. The fans and their support go a long way toward building a winning tradition, and that is exactly what we are trying to build here at Wartburg.

These men have to feel that someone besides themselves wants the team to win. So get behind Wartburg's unpaid athletes when they do battle with their next scheduled opponent, who, by the way, keep their athletes on a form of the "Marshall Plan." Even their chess and college quiz bowl teams get free rides.

Grabbing my saw in hand and heading for the next limb, I place the blade upon the branch of organization that reigns over athletic aid in this conference. Aid varies from school to school as much as our foreign policy.

It is time for a little standardization. An attempt should be made to strike a happy medium. Christian ethics really take a good right cross from several of the Iowa Conference schools.

Let's bring all the free rides, "academic rides" and under-the-table deals out in the open and sit down and work out a clear-cut policy with the commissioner in charge to reshape the conference.

Speaking of the word "ethics," it must be a new word for some of the conference schools, which can easily be seen in last year's baseball season. Not to mention any names, but one school really dropped a load on the rest.

Congratulations, Mr. Oppermann, for taking a stand on this matter, even though it meant a possible trip to the Small College World Series. Someone in the conference had the courage to stand up and be counted.

The only question that remains now is, can the new commissioner be counted on? We hope that Mr. Ryan will exert some forceful leadership instead of the wishy-washy type that has been so evident in recent years.

No offense, Charlie Brown. Speaking of mythological characters like Charlie Brown, how is the freshman class? While we are speaking of funny things, what about the newest of the seven wonders of the world--the Den?

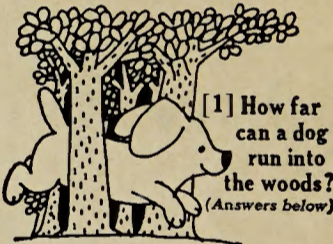

The new dark, smoke-filled atmosphere is so dank that athletes will have to be banned from there. Even Bill Glitz would be revolted, and you just know how bad that would have to be.

On Friday, Oct. 14, second day of the Homecoming weekend, will be a picnic from 4:30-6 p.m. at the Outfly grounds.

Two Satires Open Season

Two satires will open the Wartburg Players' 1966-67 season on the evenings of Oct. 27-29. Coupled with Arthur Kopit's "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling So Sad" will be a sardonic comedy by Edward Albee, "The American Dream."

The Rev. Richard Shaper, in his first year as a dramatics instructor at Wartburg, has announced that tryouts for the two plays will be Monday at the Little Theater. Actors are to report at 6:30 to 8 p.m. and technicians from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Dates for other plays are as yet tentative, though it is possible that the Castle Singers will join the Players in an early March production of "Kiss Me, Kate."

That evening at Kastle Kapers, the production, "Brave New Wartburg," will portray the first Wartburg extension on the moon.

Starting at 8:30 p.m. and extending through the second showing of "Brave New Wartburg" will be the Queen's Reception.

Following the close of Kastle Kapers and the Queen's Reception, the bonfire will be held. As is customary, the freshman class is in charge of producing the "biggest and the best bonfire ever."

After the bonfire, a Continental Breakfast, a new event to the Homecoming activities, will be served in the cafeteria.

Dorm Judging

Saturday morning will be the judging of the dorm decorations. Then the parade will march its way down Bremer to the campus where a barbeque will be served from 10:45 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Entertainment at the barbeque will feature "The Group" and the Wartburg Band.

Waverly golf course will be the scene of Wartburg's cross country meet with Winona and Central, at 11:30 a.m.

Open House will be held in the dorms from after the parade to 1:30 p.m.

WANTED BY RECORD CLUB OF America -- campus representative to earn over $100 in short time. Write for information to: Mr. Ed Benory, College Bureau Manager, Record Club of America, 1285 E. Princess Street, York, Pennsylvania 17405.

At 2 p.m. the Wartburg Knights will battle Central's Dutchmen at Schield Stadium.

A smorgasbord dinner will be held that evening. For persons with a seven-day meal ticket there will be a 25-cent reservation charge; for a five-day meal ticket, $1.25; and for persons with no meal ticket, the charge will be $2.00.

At 9 p.m. the dance with the theme Camelot will begin.

Sunday will be the climax of a weekend of "fun and victory" for the 1966 Homecoming festivities. Worship service will begin the day at 10 a.m. in the Neumann Auditorium.

Dorm Open House

From 1-4 p.m. there will again be open house in the dorms and off-campus houses. Also in the afternoon there will be a girl-take-boy movie.

The highlight of the weekend will be the Artist Series performance of Victor Borge, famed pianist and comedian, and Leonid Hambro.
